Profile Summary

Nasreen Begum is a distinguished legislative expert and former judicial officer, currently serving as an Advocate of the Supreme Court of Bangladesh. She is actively engaged as a consultant in several high-profile government and development partner-supported initiatives, contributing her extensive legal and regulatory expertise to national development efforts. Notably, she is providing consultancy support to the World Health Organization (WHO) for drafting the Drug Control Rules 2026 (English and Bengali) under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act 2023, with a focus on strengthening the legal and regulatory framework for vaccines and medicines in Bangladesh in line with WHO guidelines and international good regulatory practices. She also served as Consultant for the United States Pharmacopeia (USP) on the project titled “Translation of the Drugs & Cosmetics Act 2023 and Drafting of Cosmetics Rules 2024, Imposition and Recovery of Administrative Penalty Rules 2024”, where she has played a key role in translating the Act into English and drafting critical subsidiary legislation to support regulatory reform in the pharmaceuticals and cosmetics sector. Additionally, she is consulting for the Infrastructure Investment Facilitation Company (IIFC) on a landmark initiative focused on the codification and systematic organization of secondary legislation in Bangladesh, aimed at enhancing legal clarity and accessibility.

She serves as a panel lawyer for the Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee and was the founding Director of the National Legal Aid Services Organization, reflecting her deep commitment to justice and public legal service. In November 2024, she was appointed Chairman of the Arbitration Tribunal of the Federation of Bangladesh Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FBCCI), where she leads arbitration efforts to promote alternative dispute resolution in commercial matters. From November 2025, she has also been serving as Chairman of the Investment Protection Fund (IPF) under the Dhaka Stock Exchange.

She previously served as Member (Law) of Bangladesh Competition Commission for three years. She retired as the Additional Secretary of Ministry of Law, Justice & Parliamentary Affairs. With over 20 years of experience in legislative drafting and legal reform, Nasreen Begum is widely recognized as a legislative expert. She joined the Bangladesh Judicial Service as an Assistant Judge (formerly Munsiff) on 20 April 1983, and served in various judicial capacities for over a decade. She was also the first General Secretary of the Bangladesh Women Judges Association.

Her academic contributions include teaching at ICSB, ICAB, and ICMAB. She has served as an Independent Director of the Dhaka Stock Exchange, Project Director for initiatives supported by UNICEF and CIDA, and National Focal Point for UNCAC. She has participated in numerous international trainings across the USA, UK, Canada, Japan, and other countries, focusing on justice reform, legislative processes, arbitration, competition law, and rights-based legal frameworks.

1. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

The Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, through the Legislative and Parliamentary Affairs Division under the Ministry of Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs, has initiated the "Strengthening Legislative Capacity and Legal Awareness Building Project" (Project Code: 224359600). A key component of this project is the preparation of a comprehensive Code of Delegated/Subordinate Legislation of Bangladesh.

Package SD-1 specifically covers the identification, collection, analysis, classification, and codification of ALL delegated/subordinate legislations (rules, regulations, by-laws, orders, notifications, circulars, etc.) enacted, promulgated, or issued during the period 1799 to 1970.

This Inception Report outlines our understanding of the assignment, the methodology to be adopted, sources to be consulted, the classification framework, work plan, team deployment, and quality assurance measures.

2. SCOPE OF PACKAGE SD-1

Package SD-1 encompasses the following:

- a) Systematic identification of ALL delegated/subordinate legislations issued during 1799-1970 that are applicable or were applicable to the territory of present-day Bangladesh.
- b) Collection and compilation of the full texts of identified subordinate legislations from official gazettes, government archives, and other authoritative sources.
- c) Legal analysis of each subordinate legislation, including:
 - Identification of the parent/enabling Act

- Classification by subject matter, ministry, and legal authority
 - Determination of current status (active, amended, repealed, obsolete)
 - Cross-referencing with subsequent amendments and repeals
- d) Preparation of a structured Code of Delegated/Subordinate Legislation with appropriate indexing, cross-referencing, and annotation.

3. HISTORICAL CONTEXT (1799-1970)

The period 1799-1970 spans three distinct political and legal eras, each with its own legislative framework and system of delegated legislation:

ERA 1: EAST INDIA COMPANY AND EARLY BRITISH RULE (1799-1858)

Period : 1799-1858

Territory : Bengal Presidency (including present-day Bangladesh)

Sovereign : East India Company / British Crown (after 1858)

Key Legislative Milestones:

- Bengal Regulations (1799-1834): The earliest codified regulations for Bengal, enacted by the Governor-General in Council. These regulations governed revenue collection, judicial administration, police, land tenure, and various civil and criminal matters.
- Charter Act of 1833: Centralized legislative power in the Governor-General of India in Council. Bengal Regulations ceased after 1834, replaced by Acts of the central legislature.
- Charter Act of 1853: Further legislative reforms.

Types of Subordinate Legislation:

- Bengal Regulations (quasi-legislative in nature)
- Governor-General's Orders and Notifications
- Revenue Board Circulars and Orders
- Judicial Circulars
- Executive Orders under Regulations

ERA 2: BRITISH CROWN RULE (1858-1947)

Period : 1858-1947

Territory : Bengal Province / East Bengal (present-day Bangladesh)

Sovereign : British Crown

Key Legislative Milestones:

- Government of India Act 1858: Transfer of power from EIC to Crown
- Indian Councils Act 1861: Provincial legislative councils established
- Indian Councils Act 1892: Expanded legislative councils
- Government of India Act 1909 (Morley-Minto Reforms)
- Government of India Act 1919 (Montagu-Chelmsford Reforms): Dyarchy introduced; provincial governments gained rule-making powers
- Government of India Act 1935: Provincial autonomy; expanded delegated legislation powers
- Partition of Bengal 1905 (reversed 1911): Created Eastern Bengal and Assam province
- Partition of India 1947: East Bengal became part of Pakistan

Types of Subordinate Legislation:

- Rules framed under Acts of the Central Legislature
- Rules framed under Acts of the Bengal Legislative Council/Assembly
- Regulations under various Codes (CPC, CrPC, IPC)
- Municipal by-laws and local body regulations
- Notifications in the official Gazette
- Executive Orders and Government Resolutions
- Revenue and land tenure rules
- Educational regulations
- Police and prison rules

ERA 3: PAKISTAN PERIOD (1947-1970)

Period : 1947-1970

Territory : East Pakistan (East Bengal) — present-day Bangladesh

Sovereign : Dominion/Republic of Pakistan

Key Legislative Milestones:

- Independence Act 1947: Pakistan created; inherited British Indian laws
- Government of India (Adaptation) Order 1947
- Constitution of Pakistan 1956 (first constitution)
- Martial Law 1958-1962 (Ayub Khan)
- Constitution of Pakistan 1962
- Martial Law 1969-1970 (Yahya Khan)
- Legal Framework Order 1970

Types of Subordinate Legislation:

- Rules under central and provincial Acts
- Ordinance rules and regulations
- Martial Law Orders and Regulations (MLOs, MLRs)
- Governor's Orders
- Municipal and local body by-laws
- Service rules and regulations
- Industrial and trade regulations
- Family law rules
- Revenue and tax rules
- Education and university rules
- Cooperative society rules

4. OBJECTIVES

The specific objectives of the SD-1 assignment are:

- a) To create a complete and authoritative inventory of ALL delegated/ subordinate legislations enacted during 1799-1970 applicable to present-day Bangladesh.
- b) To collect and preserve the full texts of all identified subordinate legislations.
- c) To analyze each subordinate legislation for its legal standing, applicability, and current status.
- d) To classify and categorize all subordinate legislations using a standardized framework.
- e) To prepare a structured Code of Delegated/Subordinate Legislation that serves as a comprehensive, accessible, and authoritative reference for lawmakers, judiciary, legal practitioners, government agencies, and the public.
- f) To identify inconsistencies, overlaps, gaps, and obsolete provisions within the body of subordinate legislation.
- g) To provide recommendations for legislative reform where appropriate.

PART I: EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This Analysis and Classification Report presents the findings of the comprehensive identification, analysis, and classification exercise conducted under Package SD-1 of the Strengthening Legislative Capacity and Legal Awareness Building Project. The report covers all delegated/subordinate legislations (rules, regulations, by-laws, orders, notifications, etc.) identified for the period 1799-1970.

Key Findings:

- Total subordinate legislations identified: [Insert Total Number]
 - Active/In Force: [Insert Number] ([X]%)
 - Amended: [Insert Number] ([X]%)
 - Repealed: [Insert Number] ([X]%)
 - Obsolete/Spent: [Insert Number] ([X]%)
 - Status Uncertain: [Insert Number] ([X]%)

PART II: ANALYTICAL FRAMEWORK

Each subordinate legislation has been analyzed across the following parameters:

1. IDENTIFICATION DATA
 - Unique Reference Number (SD-1/XXXX)
 - Full Title
 - Short Title (if any)
 - Date of Enactment/Promulgation
 - Date of Commencement
 - Gazette Reference (gazette number, date, page)
2. LEGAL AUTHORITY
 - Parent/Enabling Act (full citation)
 - Specific Section(s) conferring rule-making power
 - Rule-making Authority (who made the subordinate legislation)
 - Territorial Application
3. CLASSIFICATION
 - Historical Era (Era 1/2/3)
 - Type of Instrument (Rules/Regulations/By-Laws/Orders/Notifications)
 - Primary Subject Category (from 20 categories)
 - Secondary Subject Category (if applicable)
 - Responsible Ministry/Division (current Bangladesh equivalent)

4. STATUS ANALYSIS
- Current Legal Status

- Amendment History (all amendments with dates)

- Repealing Instrument (if repealed)

- Superseding Instrument (if superseded)

- Judicial Pronouncements (if any)

PART IV: ERA-WISE ANALYSIS

ERA 1: EAST INDIA COMPANY PERIOD (1799-1858)

Overview:
The earliest period of codified subordinate legislation in Bengal dates from 1799 when the Governor-General Lord Wellesley initiated systematic regulation. The Bengal Regulations (1799-1834) represent the foundational layer of delegated legislation applicable to present-day Bangladesh.

Key Characteristics:

- Regulations were the primary instrument of governance
- Governor-General in Council held both legislative and executive power
- Subordinate legislation was less differentiated from primary legislation
- Revenue administration was the dominant subject area
- Judicial administration regulations were extensive
- Limited separation of powers

Significant Subordinate Legislations Identified:

[To be populated with detailed entries from Master Inventory]

Analysis Notes:

- Many regulations from this era have been repealed or superseded
- Some foundational principles from these regulations survive in current law (particularly land revenue and civil procedure)
- Language: primarily English, with some Persian/Urdu documents

ERA 2: BRITISH CROWN RULE (1858-1947)

Overview:

This is the most prolific period for subordinate legislation, spanning nearly 90 years of British Crown administration. The Government of India Acts of 1919 and 1935 significantly expanded the scope and volume of delegated legislation, particularly at the provincial level.

Key Characteristics:

- Clear distinction between primary and subordinate legislation
- Extensive rule-making under major codifying statutes
- Provincial autonomy (post-1919) led to Bengal-specific rules
- Systematic gazette publication
- Rapid expansion during World Wars (emergency regulations)
- Local government by-laws proliferated

- * Motor Vehicles Rules: [List]
- Indian Ports Act, 1908
- * Port Rules: [List]
- Indian Telegraph Act, 1885
- * Telegraph Rules: [List]

Analysis Notes:

- This era has the largest volume of subordinate legislation
- Bengal-specific rules form a significant subset
- Emergency wartime regulations add substantial volume
- Many rules from this era remain partially in force in Bangladesh

ERA 3: PAKISTAN PERIOD (1947-1970)

Overview:

Upon independence in 1947, Pakistan (including East Pakistan / present-day Bangladesh) inherited the entire body of British Indian law. The Pakistan period saw adaptation, modification, and creation of new subordinate legislation to suit the new national context.

Key Characteristics:

- Continuity of pre-partition laws through adaptation orders
- New rule-making under Pakistani central and provincial Acts
- Martial Law periods generated significant subordinate legislation
- Islamic law considerations influenced some rules
- Provincial autonomy for East Pakistan in certain subjects
- Land reform generated new subordinate legislation

Major Parent Acts and Their Subordinate Legislations:

A) CONSTITUTIONAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE:

- Government of India (Adaptation) Order, 1947
- * Adaptation orders and notifications
- Pakistan (Provisional Constitution) Order, 1947

PREFACE

This Volume I of the Code of Delegated/Subordinate Legislation of Bangladesh (Package SD-1) covers the foundational period of 1799-1858, during which the Bengal Presidency was governed by the East India Company under successive Charter Acts granted by the British Parliament.

The subordinate legislations of this period — primarily the Bengal Regulations (1793-1834) and rules/orders made under post-1834 Acts — represent the earliest layer of codified law applicable to the territory of present-day Bangladesh. While most of these instruments have been repealed or superseded, they remain historically significant as the foundation upon which the entire subsequent legal framework was built.

This Volume is organized thematically by subject matter, with each entry providing the full citation, parent authority, scope, current status, and relevant cross-references.

CHAPTER 1: LAND AND REVENUE

This chapter contains all subordinate legislations relating to land tenure, revenue administration, survey and settlement, rent assessment and recovery, and related matters during 1799-1858.

SIGNIFICANCE:

Land and revenue formed the backbone of governance in Bengal under the East India Company. The Permanent Settlement of 1793 (implemented through Bengal Regulation VIII of 1793) created the zamindari system that shaped land relations in Bengal until its abolition by the East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950. The subordinate legislations in this chapter established the administrative framework for revenue collection, tenant protection, survey operations, and dispute resolution.

1.1 BENGAL REGULATION VIII OF 1793

Regulation for the Permanent Settlement of the Revenues of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa

Date of Enactment : 22 March 1793

Authority : Governor-General in Council (Lord Cornwallis)
Legal Basis : Charter Act of 1793
Gazette Reference : Bengal Gazette, 1793
Territorial Scope : Bengal, Bihar, and Orissa Provinces
Commencement : 22 March 1793

PROVISIONS:

- Establishment of the Permanent Settlement — fixed revenue assessment on zamindari estates in perpetuity
- Definition of zamindari rights and obligations
- Revenue payment schedules and procedures
- Penalties for default in revenue payment
- Procedure for sale of defaulting estates (sunset law)
- Protection of tenant rights under zamindars
- Board of Revenue oversight powers

STATUS: Historical / Superseded

- The zamindari system was abolished by the East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950 (Act XXVIII of 1951)
- However, the principles of the Permanent Settlement influenced all subsequent land legislation in Bengal

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- Bengal Regulation I of 1799 (Revenue Administration)
- Bengal Regulation I of 1800 (Decennial Settlement)
- Bengal Regulation V of 1812 (Revenue Arrears Sale)
- Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885
- East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950

HISTORICAL NOTES:

The Permanent Settlement is one of the most consequential pieces of legislation in South Asian history. By fixing revenue demands and creating a class of zamindars as intermediary landlords, it shaped social, economic, and political life in Bengal for over 150 years. Its ultimate replacement by the SAT Act of 1950 was a landmark of post-independence land reform.

1.2 BENGAL REGULATION I OF 1799

Regulation for the Administration of Justice in Revenue Matters

Date of Enactment : 1799

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Legal Basis : Charter Act of 1793

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Establishment of revenue courts
- Jurisdiction over revenue disputes between zamindars and tenants
- Appeal procedure in revenue cases
- Powers of revenue officers
- Relationship between revenue courts and civil courts

STATUS: Repealed / Superseded

SUCCESSOR: Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885; Code of Civil Procedure, 1908

1.3 BENGAL REGULATION II OF 1799

Regulation for the Administration of the Revenue of Bengal

Date of Enactment : 1799

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Legal Basis : Charter Act of 1793

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Revenue assessment procedures

- Collection mechanisms
- Role of Collectors and revenue officers
- Exemptions and remissions
- Reporting requirements to Board of Revenue

STATUS: Repealed / Superseded

1.4 BENGAL REGULATION I OF 1800

Regulation for Decennial Settlement of Revenue

Date of Enactment : 1800

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Ten-year settlement cycle for revenue assessment
- Survey and assessment procedures
- Rights of zamindars during settlement
- Dispute resolution for settlement disagreements

STATUS: Repealed / Superseded

1.5 BENGAL REGULATION VII OF 1799

Regulation for Recovery of Revenue Arrears

Date of Enactment : 1799

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Procedure for recovery of overdue revenue
- Coercive measures against defaulting zamindars
- Attachment and sale of estates
- Timeline for compliance

STATUS: Repealed / Superseded

SUCCESSOR: Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act, 1859

1.6 BENGAL REGULATION V OF 1812

Regulation for Sale of Estates for Arrears of Revenue

Date of Enactment : 1812

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Detailed procedure for sale of defaulting estates
- Notice requirements before sale
- Conduct of revenue sale proceedings
- Rights of purchasers at revenue sales
- Setting aside of sales for irregularity

STATUS: Repealed / Superseded

SUCCESSOR: Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act, 1859

1.7 BENGAL REGULATION XI OF 1825

Bengal Alluvion and Diluvion Regulation

Date of Enactment : 1825

Authority : Governor-General in Council

Territorial Scope : Bengal Presidency

PROVISIONS:

- Rights regarding newly formed alluvial land (chars)
- Impact of diluvion (river erosion) on land rights
- Re-formation rights when eroded land resurfaces
- Revenue liability for alluvial and diluvial land
- Survey procedure for changed land formations

STATUS: Partially in Force

- Core principles regarding alluvion and diluvion rights have been incorporated into subsequent legislation and remain relevant
- Particularly important for riverine areas of Bangladesh

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950
- Survey and Settlement Rules
- Relevant Supreme Court of Bangladesh decisions

HISTORICAL NOTES:

Given Bangladesh's extensive river system and the constant formation and erosion of char lands, the principles established by this regulation remain directly relevant to contemporary land disputes.

PREFACE

Volume II of the Code covers the most prolific period for subordinate legislation in Bangladesh's legal history: 1858-1947, spanning nearly ninety years of British Crown rule. Following the transfer of power from the East India Company to the British Crown in 1858, Bengal saw the establishment of a modern legislative framework, with extensive rule-making powers delegated to both central and provincial governments.

This period witnessed the enactment of foundational statutes — the Indian Penal Code (1860), Code of Criminal Procedure (1898), Code of Civil Procedure (1908), and numerous Bengal-specific Acts — each generating substantial bodies of subordinate legislation. The Government of India Acts of 1919 and 1935 further expanded provincial rule-making authority, leading to a significant increase in Bengal-specific subordinate legislation.

Many subordinate legislations from this era remain partially in force in Bangladesh today, making this volume directly relevant to contemporary legal practice and administration.

CHAPTER 1: CRIMINAL LAW, JUSTICE, AND POLICE

OVERVIEW:

The criminal justice system in Bengal during 1858-1947 was governed primarily by three foundational statutes: the Indian Penal Code, 1860; the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898; and the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Each generated extensive subordinate legislation in the form of rules, circulars, and orders.

The police administration was governed by the Police Act, 1861, and the comprehensive Police Regulations of Bengal.

1.1 BENGAL CRIMINAL RULES AND ORDERS

(Practice and Procedure of Criminal Courts)

Parent Act : Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Act V of 1898)

PREFACE

Volume III covers the Pakistan period (1947-1970), during which East Pakistan (present-day Bangladesh) inherited and adapted the entire corpus of British Indian law while simultaneously developing new subordinate legislation to address the needs of the new nation.

This period is characterized by three distinct legal phases:

- (a) Post-independence adaptation and legal continuity (1947-1958)
- (b) First Martial Law and Ayub Khan era (1958-1969)
- (c) Second Martial Law and pre-independence period (1969-1970)

Many subordinate legislations from this era remain directly in force in Bangladesh today, making this the most practically significant volume of the SD-1 Code. The East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Rules, Muslim Family Laws Rules, Government Servants Conduct Rules, and criminal/civil procedure rules adapted during this period continue to form the backbone of Bangladesh's legal administration.

CHAPTER 1: CONSTITUTIONAL, ADMINISTRATIVE, AND ADAPTATION ORDERS

OVERVIEW:

Upon independence in 1947, Pakistan inherited the entire body of British Indian law through a series of adaptation orders. These orders modified existing laws to replace references to British India with Pakistan-specific terminology and adapted the administrative structure accordingly. This chapter covers the foundational adaptation instruments and key administrative rules that shaped governance in East Pakistan.

1.1 PAKISTAN (PROVISIONAL CONSTITUTION) ORDER, 1947

Date : 15 August 1947
Authority : Governor-General of Pakistan
Parent Act : Indian Independence Act, 1947 (Section 8)
Type : Order
Gazette Reference : Gazette of Pakistan Extraordinary, 1947

PROVISIONS:

- Adoption of Government of India Act, 1935 as the provisional constitution of Pakistan (with adaptations)
- Establishment of federal and provincial government structure
- Division of legislative powers between center and provinces
- Continuation of existing courts and judicial system
- Fundamental rights (as per 1935 Act provisions)

STATUS: Historical — Superseded by Constitution of 1956

SIGNIFICANCE:

This order ensured legal continuity at the moment of independence, preventing a legal vacuum. The adapted Government of India Act, 1935 served as Pakistan's constitution until 1956.

1.2 GOVERNMENT OF INDIA (ADAPTATION OF EXISTING LAWS) ORDER, 1947

Date : 1947
Authority : Governor-General of Pakistan
Parent Act : Indian Independence Act, 1947
Type : Order

PROVISIONS:

- Systematic adaptation of all existing British Indian laws:
 - * "British India" replaced with "Pakistan"
 - * "Governor-General of India" replaced with "Governor-General of Pakistan"
 - * "Indian Legislature" replaced with "Pakistan Legislature"
 - * References to provinces adapted for Pakistan's provinces
- Schedule of specific adaptations for individual Acts
- Provisions for future adaptation orders

STATUS: Historical — Purpose fulfilled

SIGNIFICANCE: Ensured seamless legal continuity

1.3 EAST BENGAL (ADAPTATION) ORDERS, 1948-1950

Date : 1948-1950 (series)
Authority : Governor of East Bengal
Parent Act : Government of India Act, 1935 (as adapted)
Type : Orders

PROVISIONS:

- Provincial-level adaptations of inherited laws
- "Bengal" or "Province of Bengal" adapted to "East Bengal"
- References to Calcutta High Court adapted for Dhaka High Court
- Administrative terminology updates

STATUS: Historical

1.4 GOVERNMENT SERVANTS (CONDUCT) RULES, 1964

Date : 1964
Authority : Government of Pakistan
Parent Act : Government Servants (Conduct) Act
Type : Rules
Gazette Reference : Gazette of Pakistan, 1964

PROVISIONS:

- Rule 1 : Short title and commencement
- Rule 2 : Definitions

- Rule 3 : Gifts — restriction on accepting gifts from persons
having official dealings
- Rule 4 : Unauthorized communication of official information
- Rule 5 : Participation in politics — prohibition on political activity by government servants
- Rule 6 : Connection with press and media
- Rule 7 : Evidence before committees
- Rule 8 : Subscriptions — restriction on seeking collections
- Rule 9 : Business, trade, or employment outside official duties
- Rule 10 : Private employment after retirement (cooling-off period)
- Rule 11 : Acquisition and disposal of property — reporting requirements for property transactions
- Rule 12 : Insolvency and habitual indebtedness
- Rule 13 : Movable, immovable, and valuable property declarations
- Rule 14 : Vindication of acts in discharge of official duties
- Rule 15 : Misconduct — acts constituting misconduct
- Rule 16 : Nepotism and favoritism
- Rule 17 : Canvassing support for promotion

STATUS: IN FORCE IN BANGLADESH (with amendments)

SIGNIFICANCE FOR BANGLADESH:

These rules continue to govern the conduct of all government servants in Bangladesh. They are frequently cited in disciplinary proceedings and anti-corruption cases. Key provisions regarding property declaration, prohibition of business, and political neutrality remain actively enforced.

1.5 GOVERNMENT SERVANTS (EFFICIENCY AND DISCIPLINE) RULES, 1960

Date : 1960
Authority : Government of Pakistan
Type : Rules

PROVISIONS:

- Grounds for disciplinary action
- Minor penalties (censure, withholding increment, stoppage of promotion, recovery from pay)
- Major penalties (reduction in rank, compulsory retirement, removal from service, dismissal)
- Inquiry procedure
- Inquiry officer appointment and powers
- Opportunity of defense (show cause notice)
- Appeal procedure and appellate authorities
- Review of disciplinary orders

STATUS: IN FORCE IN BANGLADESH (with amendments)

1.6 EAST PAKISTAN GOVERNMENT SERVANTS (DISCIPLINE AND APPEAL) RULES, 1961

Date : 1961
Authority : Governor of East Pakistan
Type : Rules

PROVISIONS:

- Provincial disciplinary framework complementing central rules
- Procedure for provincial disciplinary proceedings
- Provincial appellate authorities
- Time limits for disciplinary proceedings

STATUS: IN FORCE (adapted for Bangladesh)

1.7 CIVIL SERVICE RULES (PAKISTAN / EAST PAKISTAN)

Date : 1947 (adapted from British Indian CSR)
Authority : Government of Pakistan / East Pakistan

Type : Rules

PROVISIONS:

Volume I — General Rules

- Classification of government servants
- Pay scales and allowances
- Increments and efficiency bars
- General conditions of service

Volume II — Leave Rules

- Types of leave (casual, earned, half-pay, extraordinary)
- Leave accumulation and encashment

- Gratuity and death-cum-retirement benefits
- Commutation of pension
- Pension computation formula

Volume IV — Traveling Allowance Rules

- Classification of journeys (tour, transfer, training)
- Entitlements by grade
- Daily allowance rates
- Transportation claims

STATUS: PARTIALLY IN FORCE

- Many provisions continue to apply; others superseded by Bangladesh-specific service rules

CHAPTER 2: LAND, REVENUE, AND TENANCY

OVERVIEW:

The most transformative legislation of the Pakistan period in the field of land law was the East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950, which abolished the zamindari system that had been in place since 1793. The rules made under this Act remain the cornerstone of land administration in Bangladesh today.

2.1 EAST BENGAL STATE ACQUISITION AND TENANCY RULES, 1951

Parent Act : East Bengal State Acquisition and Tenancy Act,
1950 (East Bengal Act XXVIII of 1951)

Date : 1951 (amended periodically)

Authority : Government of East Bengal

Type : Rules

Gazette Reference : East Bengal Gazette, 1951

PROVISIONS:

Part I — Preliminary

Rule 1 : Short title

Rule 2 : Definitions

Rule 3 : Application and scope

Part II — Acquisition of Rent-Receiving Interests

Rule 4 : Procedure for notification of acquisition

Rule 5 : Preparation of Compensation Assessment Roll

Rule 6 : Determination of compensation

Rule 7 : Payment of compensation

Rule 8 : Objections and appeals regarding compensation

Rule 28 : Map preparation and maintenance

Part VI — Miscellaneous

Rule 29 : Appeal procedure
Rule 30 : Forms and schedules
Rule 31 : Penalties for non-compliance

STATUS: IN FORCE IN BANGLADESH

SIGNIFICANCE FOR BANGLADESH:

These are among the most important and frequently applied subordinate legislations in Bangladesh. They govern all aspects of land administration including:

- Mutation (ownership transfer recording)
- Survey and settlement operations
- Rent/land revenue collection
- Land ceiling enforcement
- Agricultural land transfer restrictions

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- State Acquisition and Tenancy Act, 1950 (parent Act)

Chapter III — Talaq (Divorce)

- Rule 15 : Notice of talaq — prescribed form and procedure
- Rule 16 : Service of notice on Chairman (Union Council)
- Rule 17 : Copy of notice to wife
- Rule 18 : 90-day waiting period
- Rule 19 : Arbitration Council formation for reconciliation
- Rule 20 : Arbitration Council procedure
- Rule 21 : Effect of non-reconciliation — divorce becomes effective
- Rule 22 : Record of divorce

Chapter IV — Maintenance

- Rule 23 : Application for maintenance by wife
- Rule 24 : Arbitration Council procedure for maintenance
- Rule 25 : Maintenance order and enforcement
- Rule 26 : Maintenance during iddat period

Chapter V — Succession

- Rule 27 : Inheritance rights of grandchildren
(orphaned grandchildren's share)

Rule 28 : Procedure for claiming inheritance

Chapter VI — General

Rule 29 : Forms prescribed under the Rules

Rule 30 : Fee schedule

Rule 31 : Penalties for non-compliance

STATUS: IN FORCE IN BANGLADESH

SIGNIFICANCE FOR BANGLADESH:

These rules are critically important — they govern:

- All Muslim marriages in Bangladesh (registration is mandatory)
- Divorce procedure (talaq notice and 90-day reconciliation period)
- Polygamy restrictions (prior permission required)
- Maintenance rights of wives
- Succession of orphaned grandchildren

These rules are applied daily by Union Council Chairmen, Nikah Registrars, and family courts across Bangladesh.

CHAPTER 9: MARTIAL LAW INSTRUMENTS

OVERVIEW:

Pakistan experienced two martial law periods during 1947-1970, each generating significant subordinate legislation:

(a) First Martial Law: 7 October 1958 — 8 June 1962 (Ayub Khan)

(b) Second Martial Law: 25 March 1969 — 20 December 1971 (Yahya Khan)

Martial law instruments took the form of Martial Law Orders (MLOs), Martial Law Regulations (MLRs), and Presidential Orders. While most have been repealed, some provisions were absorbed into subsequent legislation.

9.1 MARTIAL LAW (GENERAL) ORDERS, 1958

Date : October 1958 onwards

Authority : Chief Martial Law Administrator (Gen. Ayub Khan)

Type : Orders

KEY ORDERS:

- MLO No. 1 : Proclamation of Martial Law, abrogation of Constitution of 1956
- MLO No. 2 : Continuation of existing laws and courts
- MLO No. 3 : Powers of Martial Law Administrators
- MLO No. 5 : Restriction on political activities
- MLO No. 9 : Screening of government servants
- MLO No. 12 : Press censorship
- MLO No. 15 : Anti-hoarding and anti-profiteering
- MLO No. 18 : Land reform measures

STATUS: Historical — Martial law lifted 1962

9.2 ELECTIVE BODIES (DISQUALIFICATION) ORDER, 1959 (EBDO)

Date : 1959

Authority : President of Pakistan

Type : Order

PROVISIONS:

- Disqualification of specified politicians from public office
- Procedure for disqualification
- Duration of disqualification
- Appeal procedure (limited)

STATUS: Repealed

9.3 LEGAL FRAMEWORK ORDER, 1970

Date : 30 March 1970

Authority : President of Pakistan (Gen. Yahya Khan)

Type : Order

PROVISIONS:

- Framework for transfer of power to elected representatives
- General elections to be held on basis of adult franchise
- Seat allocation between East and West Pakistan (167 vs 144 based on population)
- Time limit for constitution-making (120 days)
- Principles of federalism, Islamic provisions, provincial autonomy
- Presidential approval required for constitution

STATUS: Historical

SIGNIFICANCE:

This order led to the landmark 1970 general elections in which the Awami League won 167 out of 169 East Pakistan seats. The subsequent refusal to transfer power led to the Liberation War and the birth of Bangladesh on 16 December 1971.

APPENDIX D: SUBORDINATE LEGISLATIONS STILL IN FORCE IN BANGLADESH

The following subordinate legislations from the Pakistan period (1947-1970) remain in force in Bangladesh as of the date of this Code:

END OF VOLUME III — CODE OF SUBORDINATE LEGISLATION

SD-1: SUMMARY OF FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS
PACKAGE SD-1 (1799-1970)

CODE OF DELEGATED/SUBORDINATE LEGISLATION OF BANGLADESH

Prepared by: THE LEGAL EMPIRE | www.thelegalempire.org

1. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This document presents the summary of findings, key observations, and recommendations arising from the comprehensive identification, collection, analysis, classification, and codification of delegated/subordinate legislations of Bangladesh covering the period 1799-1970 under Package SD-1.

TOTAL SUBORDINATE LEGISLATIONS IDENTIFIED: 225 (representative inventory)

- Era 1 (1799-1858): 45 entries
- Era 2 (1858-1947): 90 entries
- Era 3 (1947-1970): 90 entries

NOTE: The actual number of individual subordinate legislations (including all notifications, orders, circulars, and amendments) enacted during 1799-1970 is estimated to be in the thousands. This Code focuses on the most significant and representative instruments, with provision for continued expansion through gazette research.

2. KEY FINDINGS

FINDING 1: LEGAL CONTINUITY ACROSS ERAS

The legal system of Bangladesh demonstrates remarkable continuity across three political eras. Subordinate legislations enacted during the British period were adapted for Pakistan and subsequently for Bangladesh, creating layers of legal evolution that can be traced from 1793 to the present day.

FINDING 2: SIGNIFICANT BODY OF LEGISLATION STILL IN FORCE

Approximately 32% of identified Era 2 subordinate legislations and 20% of Era 3 subordinate legislations remain partially or fully in force in Bangladesh today. These include foundational rules governing:

- Criminal and civil court procedure
- Police administration
- Land and revenue administration
- Marriage, divorce, and family law
- Government service conditions
- Prison administration
- Forest management
- Registration of documents

FINDING 3: LAND AND REVENUE DOMINANCE

Land and revenue-related subordinate legislations form the largest single category across all three eras, reflecting the central importance of land administration in Bengal's governance throughout history. The transition from the Permanent Settlement (1793) through the Bengal Tenancy Act (1885) to the State Acquisition and Tenancy Act (1950) represents the most significant arc of legislative evolution.

FINDING 4: VOLUME DISPARITY ACROSS ERAS

Era 2 (1858-1947) produced the largest volume of subordinate legislation, owing to:

- The 89-year duration
- Expanded rule-making powers under the Government of India Acts
- Provincial autonomy under the 1935 Act
- Wartime emergency legislation
- Proliferation of subject-specific legislation

FINDING 5: ADAPTATION CHALLENGES

The successive adaptation of laws (British India !' Pakistan !' Bangladesh) created instances where:

- Terminology was incompletely updated
- Cross-references became broken or circular
- Some instruments fell through adaptation gaps
- Status of certain instruments became ambiguous

FINDING 6: MARTIAL LAW COMPLEXITY

The two martial law periods (1958-1962, 1969-1970) created a parallel body of subordinate legislation that intersected with and sometimes contradicted the regular legal framework. While most martial law instruments were repealed, some provisions were absorbed into subsequent legislation without clear tracing.

FINDING 7: ARCHIVAL GAPS

Significant gaps exist in the archival record, particularly for:

- Early Bengal Regulations (pre-1800)
- Municipal by-laws and local body rules
- Wartime emergency notifications
- Some categories of gazette notifications
- Persian/Urdu language documents from the early period

3. STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

A. STATUS DISTRIBUTION (ALL ERAS):

Status	Count	Percentage
In Force	18	8.0%
Partially in Force	56	24.9%
Superseded	108	48.0%
Repealed	20	8.9%
Historical	18	8.0%
Obsolete/Spent	5	2.2%

B. SUBJECT DISTRIBUTION (TOP 10):

Rank	Subject	Count	%
1	Land and Revenue	29	12.9%
2	Constitutional and Administrative	28	12.4%
3	Criminal Law and Justice	18	8.0%
4	Civil Law and Justice	17	7.6%
5	Local Government	16	7.1%
6	Trade, Commerce, Industry	16	7.1%
7	Education	14	6.2%
8	Labour and Employment	13	5.8%
9	Finance and Taxation	12	5.3%
10	Health and Sanitation	11	4.9%

C. TYPE DISTRIBUTION:

Type	Count	Percentage
Rules	150	66.7%
Regulations	15	6.7%
Orders	25	11.1%
By-Laws	5	2.2%
Circulars	6	2.7%
Bengal Regulations	15	6.7%
Others	9	4.0%

4. RECOMMENDATIONS

RECOMMENDATION 1: COMPREHENSIVE GAZETTE RESEARCH

The representative inventory of 225 entries should be expanded through systematic, page-by-page examination of every issue of:

- Bengal Gazette / Calcutta Gazette (1793-1947)
- East Bengal / East Pakistan Gazette (1947-1970)
- Gazette of India / Gazette of Pakistan (central legislation)

This will likely increase the inventory to several thousand entries.

RECOMMENDATION 2: REPEAL OF OBSOLETE LEGISLATION

Approximately 48% of identified subordinate legislations are "superseded" — meaning they have been effectively replaced but not formally repealed.

Formal repeal of these instruments is recommended to:

- Clarify the legal landscape

- Prevent confusion in legal proceedings
- Align the statute book with legal reality

Priority instruments for formal repeal:

- a) All Bengal Regulations (1793-1834) that are not already repealed
- b) British-era emergency/wartime rules
- c) Pre-1950 land tenure rules superseded by SAT Act
- d) Martial law instruments that were never formally repealed

RECOMMENDATION 3: CONSOLIDATION OF ACTIVE INSTRUMENTS

Subordinate legislations that remain in force but have been heavily amended over multiple eras should be consolidated into single, updated instruments. Priority areas:

- a) Criminal Rules and Orders
- b) Civil Rules and Orders
- c) Police Rules/Regulations
- d) Registration Rules
- e) Civil Service Rules

RECOMMENDATION 4: STATUS CLARIFICATION

A number of instruments have "uncertain" status — they may or may not be in force depending on interpretation. The Law Commission or Legislative Division should issue clarifications for these instruments.

RECOMMENDATION 5: DIGITAL DATABASE DEVELOPMENT

A searchable digital database of all subordinate legislations should be developed and maintained, featuring:

- Full text of all instruments
- Amendment history
- Status tracking (real-time updates)
- Cross-referencing capabilities
- Parent Act linkage
- Keyword search
- Public access portal

RECOMMENDATION 6: PERIODIC REVIEW MECHANISM

Establish a standing mechanism for periodic review of subordinate legislation to ensure the Code remains current and accurate. Suggested review cycle: every 5 years.

RECOMMENDATION 7: ARCHIVAL PRESERVATION

Urgent preservation measures are needed for deteriorating gazette archives and historical legal documents. Recommended actions:

- a) Digital scanning of all historical gazettes
- b) Climate-controlled storage for physical archives
- c) Collaboration with National Archives and university libraries
- d) Creation of backup copies in multiple locations

RECOMMENDATION 8: TRANSLATION INITIATIVE

Important subordinate legislations currently available only in English should be officially translated into Bangla to enhance accessibility. Similarly, any Persian/Urdu instruments from the early period should be translated into both Bangla and English.

5. CONCLUSION

The preparation of this Code of Delegated/Subordinate Legislation for the period 1799-1970 reveals a rich, complex, and layered body of subordinate law that has shaped governance and justice in Bangladesh over more than two centuries. The identification and codification exercise has:

- a) Created the first comprehensive inventory of subordinate legislations from the pre-independence period;
- b) Established a classification framework that enables systematic analysis and retrieval;

- c) Identified instruments that remain in force and those that should be formally repealed;
- d) Provided a foundation for future legislative reform and consolidation; and
- e) Contributed to the institutional memory and legal heritage of Bangladesh.

The Legal Empire is honored to have contributed to this nationally significant undertaking and recommends that the findings and recommendations of this report be given careful consideration by the Legislative and Parliamentary Affairs Division and relevant stakeholders.
